

Trinity and Red Gateway
Sculptures by Hans Van de Bovenkamp at Manhattan House

Over the past 45 years, Dutch-born sculptor Hans Van de Bovenkamp has completed more than 100 major commissions for museums, civic organizations, corporations and private collectors. From his farm in Sagaponack, New York, Van de Bovenkamp begins with drawings inspired by extensive travels and studies of ancient cultures, then transforms these visions into bronze and stainless steel sculptures that create a dialogue between people, architecture and nature. Manhattan House has acquired two Van de Bovenkamp sculptures, Trinity and Red Gateway, for its private gardens.

MANHATTAN HOUSE
200 EAST 66TH STREET

O'Connor Capital Partners invites you to the grand opening of the Manhattan House private gardens and rooftop Manhattan Club.

Please join us to celebrate the unveiling of sculptures, Trinity and Red Gateway,
by eminent New York artist Hans Van de Bovenkamp.

The evening will also include tours of our impeccably re-engineered model residences and newly completed amenities, including the rooftop Manhattan Club overlooking the panoramic
New York City skyline.

Tuesday, June 16th, 2009
6:30 pm to 9:00 pm
Cocktails & Hors d'Oeuvres

Manhattan House
200 East 66th Street

Kindly RSVP
meg@manhattanhouse.com
212 566 0660

Sponsored by whitewall